CONFERENCE ANNOUNCEMENTS AND CALLS FOR PAPERS

14th Inter-University Workshop on Philosophy and Cognitive Science

Invited speaker: John McDowell

Murcia, 15-17 March 2004

The Spanish Society for Analytic Philosophy and the Philosophy Department at the University of Murcia announce that the 14th Inter-University Workshop on Philosophy and Cognitive will take place in Murcia (Spain), between 15-17 March 2004. The invited speaker will be John McDowell, from the University of Pittsburgh.

John McDowell has made an important contribution to different fields of contemporary Philosophy, including Philosophy of Language, Philosophy of Mind, Epistemology and Ethics. He is the author of Mind and World (Harvard University Press, 1994), Mind, Value and Reality (Harvard University Press, 1998), and Meaning, Knowledge and Reality (Harvard University Press, 1998).

The organizers invite submission of research papers (or long abstracts) for presentation at the workshop, on any philosophical topic where John McDowell has made a significant contribution. Submissions must be written in English, and must not exceed a reading time of 40 minutes (about 4000 words) for a total 60 minute session. Submissions will be refereed and selected by a panel appointed by the Spanish Society for Analytical Philosophy.

The organizers will cover the expenses (hotel and meals) of those speakers whose papers are selected.

Deadline for submissions: December 1, 2003

Papers should be sent, preferably by e-mail, to:

III Inter-university Workshop on Mind, Art and Morality

Madrid, Spain. March 4th-6th, 2004

Invited Speaker: Christine Korsgaard
(Harvard University, USA)

PRESENTATION

The inter-university workshop on Mind, Art and Morality was created two years ago, with the aim of opening a new space for the philosophical reflection rooted in the kind of rigorous philosophical research and discussion that the analytic tradition has been carrying on, and extrapolating it to some open and often slippery issues on aesthetic and moral experience, argumentation, action and value assessment. Problems that finally underlie in any genuine philosophical thinking.

This workshop aims at working in a point where ethical, aesthetical and the philosophy of mind's discussion topics converge and interweave. Our hope is, finally, that this initiative will help to create a space for discussion open to philosophers from different fields sharing an interest in the rigorous study of such questions.

This Workshop follows up the structure of the Inter-University Workshop on Philosophy and Cognitive Science, whose first edition took place in Donostia/San Sebastian (Spain) in 1989. Each edition is hosted by a different University and has a prominent philosopher as invited speaker. In addition, a number of contributed papers are read (in English or Spanish) on any aspect of his/her work.

The philosophical works and discussions encouraged by the Workshops on Philosophy and Cognitive Science have tended to focus on the disciplines more "typically analytic", like the philosophy of language, the philosophy of mind and epistemology, while no equivalent project in areas like ethics or aesthetics has crystallized so far. The main purpose of the Inter-University Workshop on Mind, Art, and morality is precisely to help filling this gap

The first edition of the Workshop about Mind, Art and Morality took place in Murcia (2002) with Richard Wolheim as the invited speaker. The second edition has been realized recently in Valencia with the discussion of Jonathan Dancy's practical philosophy. This third edition, will take place in the University Carlos III of Madrid, in March 2004, and will focus on the work of the American philosopher, Christine Koorsgaard.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Papers on the practical philosophy of Christine Korsgaard are specially invited, although papers on any other aspect of her work are also welcome. Young scholars are highly encouraged to participate.

Presentations should not exceed 40 minutes (with 20 additional minutes for discussion). Deadline for the receipt of papers (or, alternatively, 1000 words abstracts) is January the 10th, 2004. Papers can be submitted and presented either in English or Spanish, preferably by e-mail. Each submission will be sent for blind selection to two members the Scientific Committee.

JOURNALS

International Journal of Philosophical Studies

Editor: Dermot Moran, University College Dublin, Ireland

4 issues per year

Print ISSN 0967-2559

2003 Subscription Rates : Institutional: US$381 £230, Individual: US$107 £65

Aims and Scope

The International Journal of Philosophical Studies publishes academic articles of the highest quality in all areas of philosophy. In particular the journal seeks to:

- promote mutual comprehension and dialogue between the 'analytic' and 'continental' styles of philosophy
- combine discussion of contemporary problems with articles in the history of philosophy which shed light on aspects of the current debate
- provide quality articles on a broader range of issues than is currently available in philosophical journals

The journal contains an extensive book review section, including reviews of non-English language books. It also provides Critical Notices which review major books or themes in depth. The broad range of the International Journal of Philosophical Studies makes it essential reading for professionals in all fields of philosophy, for graduate students and for all those who take an interest in philosophical questions and their historical development.
